Reliable Interior Designer In London

Welcome to my world!

I'm Dagmar and I'm a Philosophy Designer. I'm dedicated to the study and philosophy of the person behind the space. I'm an eclectic storyteller simply finding ways of telling clients' story through their space. I'm a student and a teacher honing down the art of animating self-expression.

I use my background in History and Philosophy to help clients towards a clearer definition of who they are and what their needs are which I then translate into their own environment. My selling point is individuality and what clients pay for is an intimate relationship with another human being based on curiosity, respect and humanity. The unique nature of each individual is best seen not in who he is, but in who he becomes, and becoming authentic is a continuous process, not an event. It involves knowing oneself, being truthful and honest with oneself.
